A report is made on experience with the new antibiotic of the tetracycline group, demethylchlortetracycline (DMCT), using blood level determinations from 40 infants and small children, as well as clinical observations on 74 infants, small children and school children. Determining blood-level figures, done mainly with infants, showed that with a daily dose of 15 mg.

After a brief reference to the difficulties in evaluating damage due to nicotine--already because of the difficulty of finding a reliable smoking or non-smoking scientific critic--and after a brief discussion of nicotine as the most important toxic substance of tobacco smoke, the individual clinical syndromes are considered which must be diagnosed as damage due to nicotine

DESCRIPTORS: Therapy, *Multiple sclerosis, *Orinase, Hypoglycemia, Drugs.

Nineteen patients with multiple sclerosis were treated up to 10 months with tolbutamide, first as bed patients and then ambulatory. During this long-term treatment relapses were observed in four patients, after an initial improvement in neurological symptomatology. In none of the other cases could a change in the course of the disease be demonstrated. A relationship between a disturbance in carbohydrate metabolism, the course of the disease, and the use of tolbutamide was not observed.
